Pauli Murray: Fighting for Jane and Jim Crow

Suggested Answers

Movements

Accomplishments (suggested)

- Civil rights attorney
- Activists against racial and sexual discrimination
- First African-American female Episcopal priest
- Graduate of Hunter College (NYC)
- Worked for the New Deal’s WPA Worker’s Education Program
- Attended law school at Howard University
- Member of National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP)
- Organized sit-ins to end restaurant segregation in Washington DC
- Cofounded the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE)
- Earned a Master Degree from the University of California
- First African-American female deputy attorney general in California
- 1951 book, States’ Laws on Race and Color was described as a “bible” for civil rights lawyers by Thurgood Marshall
- Appointed by President Kennedy to the Committee on Civil and Political Rights
- Women’s rights advocate
- First African-American female ordained priest

Alaska and Hawaii are not shown in their proper locations.