we chose Nina Simone because she struggled with mental illness and racism, but she was still able to express herself thru music and equality for the POC community. Her impact was that Nina used music to release her anger in the mistreatment of black people. Her music was a form of protest and influenced many black people to be enraged in inequality.